

CITY MAGISTRATE O'CONNOR IS DEAD OF HEART FAILURE

Expires Suddenly at Home of Brother After Illness of Only One Hour.

A PICTURESQUE CAREER.

Was Known as the Best Loved Magistrate on Bench in New York City.

City Magistrate Keyran J. O'Connor died suddenly early to-day in the home of his brother, Daniel J. O'Connor, at No. 108 East One Hundred and Sixteenth street, of heart disease. His death came without warning, except that about an hour before it occurred he had complained of feeling ill and asked his brother to phone to Phil Bloch, chief clerk, that he would not be able to preside in the Night Court to-night.

Magistrate O'Connor's family are at Stevensville, in Sullivan County, where Mrs. O'Connor has lived for two years on account of her precarious health.

She has not yet been told of her husband's death for fear of the effect it might have upon her. With her are the Magistrate's four children—Irene, twenty-one years old; Harold Daniel, ten years old; Mildred, thirteen, and Josephine, nine.

MR. O'CONNOR WAS A PICTURESQUE CHARACTER.

Keyran O'Connor was one of the most picturesque personalities and the best loved magistrates that ever sat on the police bench in this city. He was keen-witted, shrewd and possessed an insight that few real malefactors ever succeeded in imposing upon, but which seasoned justice with mercy in cases that he thought deserving. Magistrate O'Connor enlivened and seasoned the dry routine of work in his court with spontaneous witticisms. Sometimes his thrusts were rather too keen-edged for the enjoyment of those at whom they were aimed.

He was born in Brooklyn in 1870 and was educated in the public schools there and in Manhattan. He entered the University Law School in October, 1889, and was graduated in June, 1891, with the degree of LL.B. He was appointed Assistant District-Attorney by District-Attorney John R. Feltows in June, 1895, and was reappointed by Asa Bird Gardiner Jan. 1, 1899, and reappointed a second time by District-Attorney Philbin in December, 1900.

Early in 1909 Mr. O'Connor, always a strong Murphy man, was appointed a Magistrate by Mayor Gaynor. Since that time he was almost constantly in harness in the city police courts.

While Assistant District-Attorney Mr. O'Connor was identified with the prosecution of many important cases, among them the Moloney and Dr. Kennedy trials. He was a member of the Democratic and Bosses Clubs, the General Committee of Tammany Hall, the Royal Arcanum and the Knights of Columbus.

NINE-YEAR-OLD VICTOR
HIS OWN POLICEMAN.

Shadows Man Who Robbed Him
Through Mile of Streets and Lands Him in Prison.

Little Victor Patterson of No. 42 North Portland avenue, Brooklyn, does not become a great detective it will not be because he lacks early knowledge of the game, for to-day he brought into the Gates Avenue Court John Starvos, nineteen years old, and testified that he had stolen a dollar from him. Victor is just nine years old.

Yesterday Victor's mother gave him a dollar to change at a nearby drug store so that he would have a dime to take to Sunday school. Starvos, Victor charges, took the dollar from him. Instead of doing a cry-baby act, Victor shadowed Starvos for more than a mile through Brooklyn streets until he saw a policeman. The little man ran up to the policeman, pointed out Starvos and charged him with theft.

Magistrate McGuire to-day held Victor's prisoner for examination. Victor proved as bright a witness as he had proved a capable "shadow" and was complimented by the Magistrate.

Want Pink Cheeks—Red Lips?

Some unfortunate men and women are prone to wonder why some of their friends are blessed with an abundance of color—pink cheeks and red lips—while theirs are always colorless. The reason for this last named condition is there is not enough red blood corpuscles in the blood—under a microscope the blood is thin and watery. The flesh is flabby too. Well known physicians assert that the regular administration for several months of three-grain hyponitrate tablets will greatly improve the color, add to the weight, make the cheeks pink and the lips red, and in general be very beneficial. For self-administration, obtain from any of the best apothecary shops—Advt.

JUDGE K. J. O'CONNOR

YOUTH SHOT BY GANGSTER DIES WITHOUT TELLING.

Cahill Had Said on Way to Hospital He Would Settle Case Himself.

Daniel Cahill, eighteen years old, nephew of Policeman Daniel J. Packney of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, who was shot by one of two young gangsters last night, after being called from a dance hall in the Bronx, died to-day in Fordham Hospital.

The boy to the very last refused to give the name of the man who had shot him. When picked up from the street near Crotona Park he protested that he would settle the matter himself and make the man who had shot him pay for it.

"I'll attend to that as soon as I get out of the hospital," he told the ambulance surgeon. Before he lost consciousness his uncle and two Bronx detectives tried to get him to tell them who had wounded him. Young Cahill walked with the men who called him from the dance hall at Third and Westover avenue to Crotona Park. There one of the men drew a revolver and fired twice. One of the shots went wild, but the other went true and into Cahill's brain.

JUDGE LANDIS DELVES INTO COMPROMISE ON FRAUD BY GOVERNMENT

Wants to Learn Whether Butterine Men Were in Conspiracy With Revenue Agents.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Judge Landis in the United States District Court instructed a special Grand Jury to investigate alleged butterine frauds compromised by the Internal Revenue Department on March 4. The Grand Jury is to learn if the manufacturers were not guilty of conspiracy to defraud the Government under Section 37 of the National Code. The jurors also were instructed to ascertain if any member of the national government was guilty of conspiracy.

On this point the Court said: "If, therefore, the officers or agents or attorneys of a corporation tax debtor, have conspired among themselves, or with officers of the United States or with other persons, to defraud the Government out of the revenue tax, and any one of such persons has done any act to carry such conspiracy into effect, they may all be proceeded against on account of such conspiracy, even though the financial liability of tax debt or for the fraud itself has been specifically extinguished by the commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury."

Judge Landis told the jurors that it was discovered two years ago that big oleomargarine manufacturers were using cottonseed oil treated with sulphur which resulted in the imitating looking like real butter. The manufacturers, he said, were warned that they would use the colored oil at their own peril.

A committee of the House of Representatives investigated, the Court related, and calculated that the Government had been defrauded of $1,300,000 in taxes. The committee also recommended that the cases not be compromised. Nevertheless, as one of the last acts of his late administration of the Treasury Department, Secretary MacVeach compromised the penalties at $100,000.

TWO GIRLS OF 13 GONE FROM HOMES.

Mothers Sure They Did Not Go of Free Will and Police Are Told.

The police of the Lenox avenue station have sent out a general alarm for Florence Wallace, thirteen, of No. 2074 Seventh avenue, and Esther E. White, same age, of No. 208 West One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, missing from their homes since Saturday night. The girls were in the same class in Public School No. 68 and were chums. Florence's mother is a widow; Esther's widowed mother has married again and is now Mrs. Emily Wood.

It is said both girls had been friendly with chauffeurs employed in garages in the neighborhood, and it is feared they may have been enticed away by hangers-on at these places. Both mothers are positive the girls did not leave home of their own free will.

Florence Wallace is large for her age, being five feet five inches tall and weighing 125 pounds. She is fair-haired and blue-eyed. She wore a green and white striped dress, a blue velvet hat and a red coat.

Esther is about the same height, weighs 125 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes, and wore a blue serge suit, white waist, blue felt hat and fur coat.
